COMPULSORY BIBLE READING BILL WINS

SCHOOL MEASURE APPROVED BY TWO TO ONE VOTE IN HOUSE

Once Defeated by Legislative Trick—Passage of Measure is Considered a Triumph for Ku Klux Klan—Floor Leader Taft Lost in Fight for Modification.

With a sufficient number of votes to enact the measure over the vote of the governor, if necessary, the Ku Klux Klan of Ohio carried its Bible reading bill by Representative Ross P. Buchanan, Carroll county thru the House of Representatives Thursday.

The vote was 80 to 40. Attempts to amend the bill were futile. Buchanan declined to discuss the issue, and merely said that friends of the bill favored it as it stood, and his dictum prevailed.

Robert A. Taft, of Hamilton county majority leader, lost his amendment by 54 to 66. A change of six votes would have defeated the compulsory feature of the measure, as Mr. Taft proposed to introduce a clause providing for home rule.

The amendment would have stipulated that the Bible should be read in schools "if required by resolution of the board of education of any school district."

The bill goes to the senate, which is to be made a field of intensive propaganda by Klansmen. While another fight is in sight, the same obstructive tactics which forced an abject surrender by the house leadership to have the motor bus and taxation bills passed may have results equally as satisfactory to the Klan.

While it has been reported, informally, that the governor is to disapprove the measure, no statement to this effect has been made.

The results of the balloting were forecast when the bill was taken from the table, where it was placed February 17, by the parliamentary trick of tabling a pending amendment by A. L. Walton, Wyandot county. This amendment was defeated Thursday without roll call. It sought to establish a special committee to arrange a course of Bible study under the direction of education.

In pleading for this amendment, which was in reality a substitute bill, Walton declared:

"We are a Christian nation. We have required adherence to the Apostle's Creed. We do not want any one on this committee who believes in higher criticism, because we feel we are drifting too much in that direction."

Mr. Walton said the reason that Bible instruction is demanded in the public schools is that Sabbath school have failed in their duty. Opposing the amendment, Buchanan insisted it takes in a wider scope than the original bill.

After the defeat of the amendment the author asked cessation of discussion "in the interest of harmony and good will." An attempt by Denny Cress, Franklin, to stop debate failed and Taft preceded presentation of his amendment, the effect of which virtually was to nullify the bill with a plea against the purpose of the measure. He said he "would not be true to the responsibilities of leadership" if he did not oppose it.

"It would be a calamity if this bill were passed," Taft said. He argued, that the position of Ohio upon this question has been unchanged for 100 years. The question was brought up in litigation in 1869, he said, and it was then concluded that the question is one for each district to settle for itself.

"If we must pass this bill," Taft continued, "it will bring down on the legislature more criticism and condemnation than anything we can do here. All our constructive work will be lost." He urged continued separation of church and state and asked "if the purpose be not establishment of religion by law, why do they wish it?"

Cramp the Style of Modern Lovers, Says Chauncey M. Depew.

"Are modern boys and girls too fast? Not a bit of it! In fact, their style is cramped, compared to sparking when I was a boy."

With this view Chauncey M. Depew, New York State's ninety-year-old ex-senator, takes decided issue with others of the older generation concerning the younger set, in reminiscences published in this week's Liberty.

"The young fellows of today are handicapped," he says. "They have to keep one hand on the wheel of the automobile. We young squirts of yesterday took our girls out in the family buggies, tossed the reins over the dashboards, and started from the scratch—with no handicaps."

"Then there was boating on the Hudson. That was another place where we had it all over the youngster of today in a motor boat. Today's youngster has a lot of things to worry about to distract him. We young fellows in Peekskill, when I was a boy, just grabbed the family rowboat, shoved it out into the stream, and let her drift. As I recall it, I was well along into manhood before I really learned what oars were for."

"IN OLD KENTUCKY"

Famous Race Play To Be Heard From WLS.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—"In Old Kentucky," the famous race play that will bring memories of the old-timers here, is to be broadcast from WLS on February 27, according to information received here. It will begin at 9 o'clock in the evening, and will be staged by WLS Theatre's own staff of players under the direction of Harry Sandler. The broadcasting will be done from the special Sears-Robuck drama studio, and Ralph Emerson, the renowned artist, will preside at the Barton organ which is to provide musical accompaniment for the play.

All the big features of the famous old play will be realistically presented. By special sound traps radio fans will be enabled to hear the beating of the horses' hoofs as they race around the track. The stable boys bursting into song will be reproduced by a negro quartette and as the big race comes to a close, a brass band will strike up, just as is done in the regular stage play. It is expected that "In Old Kentucky" will prove one of the best productions ever attempted by the WLS Theatre.

Salt Superstitions.

Superstitions concerning salt are among the earliest known to mankind. There is much evidence in holy writ for the ceremonial uses of it, and the old Moslem law commands that every sacrifice of a meat offering shall be seasoned with it. Homer calls it divine, and many of the old Teuton races looked on salt springs as holy and worshiped at them. The origin of this superstition seems to be that since salt cannot corrupt it should be regarded as a symbol of immortality.

And Tested Seed for Crops—
Potato Growers Contract for Guaranteed Spuds.

Ohio farmers this year more than ever before are turning to certified, tested seed for their crops. The spread of certified seed into counties unaccustomed to it is one indication of that, in the belief of N. W. Glines, horticultural specialist at the Ohio State university.

Back in 1923 Ohio used 100 carloads of certified seed potatoes; last year the total rose to more than 200 carloads. And this year promises to exceed last year, Mr. Glines, as secretary of the Ohio Certified Seed Potato Growers' association, reports. Certified seed, he explains is seed virtually free from disease and insect injury, clean and pure in its variety and guaranteed as such by the growers' association and the State university.

Gallia, Lawrence and Meigs counties this year, for the first time, are buying certified seed potatoes in large lots. This was decided at farmers' meetings with extension agents in these counties, meetings attended by an average of 40 farmers despite mud roads. Five growers drove more than 30 miles to attend one of the Gallia county meetings, Mr. Glines reports. Most of the certified seed used for early potatoes in Ohio comes from Minnesota. For late potatoes, Ohio growers are gradually developing their own sources of certified seed.

Historic Stonehenge.

The old temple, now known as Stonehenge, has withstood the ravages of weather time, and man himself for 35 centuries. The people who built it belonged to the neolithic period, or age of polished stones. Iron was unknown to them, but bronze implements, such as swords and spear heads, were just beginning to be introduced. They were far too expensive, however, to be in general use, and the chisels used in cutting the stones were also of stone. These are found in great numbers near by, where the workers threw them after they had worn out.

ECONOMIST
FALCONER'S
PREDICTIONS

Forecasts Good Year for Ohio
Sheep Men—Prices to Remain on Par With 1925.

For Ohio, as for most of the United States, the federal department of agriculture predicts that this will be a good year for the sheep industry. That is evident after reading the federal department's Agricultural Outlook for 1925, say rural economists at the Ohio State university.

"The world outlook and the prospective meat situation in this country promise prices for 1925 at least on a par with those of 1924," says Dr. J. I. Falconer, head of the rural economics department at Ohio State.

Danger of overproduction is slight, Dr. Falconer believes, since the increase in the number of sheep has been slight. In Ohio the number increased during 1924 from 2,115,000 to 2,178,000. For the nation as a whole there was only a 2 percent increase.

"For more than two years now lambs and wool have commanded prices well above those of most farm products and more than 50 percent above the pre-war level" the economist continues. "Altho market receipts of sheep and lambs may show a moderate increase over those of 1924, it is believed the better demand will be large enough to prevent any marked lowering of the average price."

"In those sections where feeds are available or where sheep can be added in building up a diversified system of farming, prices for the next few years will stay high enough to warrant moderate increases in numbers."

LADIES' MARKET.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Five Points M. E. church will hold a market at Colwell's clothing store corner of Court and Main streets on Saturday, February 28, beginning at 10:30 a. m. consisting of chickens, cakes, cookies, doughnuts, butter and eggs, cottage cheese etc.

Horse Is Deceived.

A horse sees everything about 22 per cent larger than does a man. So that a six-foot man looms up a little short of seven feet six inches high. The fact has, of course, never been proved, but a favorite explanation of the large image in a horse's eye is that if a horse knew man's exact size he would realize his power and pass beyond his control.

A wholesome story of tremendous heart appeal, a cast of popular players, direction that leaves nothing to be desired, swift action, mystery, lavish settings and fascinating New York as a background—you'll find them all in Paramount's, "The City That Never Sleeps" which opened last night at the Met theater.

The picture is based on Walter Woods and Anthony Coldewey's adaptation of the magazine story, "Mother O'Day," by Leroy Scott.

The theme of the story is mother-love—how a mother makes the supreme sacrifice for her child only to realize, years later, that it was in vain. Her desperate efforts to save her daughter, now grown to young womanhood, and the manner in which she accomplishes her object make a great picture.

"The City That Never Sleeps" is further evidence that James Cruze's claim to directorial greatness does not rest on "The Covered Wagon" alone. The same shrewd direction and sympathetic treatment that was noted in his production of "The Covered Wagon" is plainly evident in his latest screen triumph.

As for the cast, mention need only be made of the featured players to prove that it is of high calibre. Louise Dresser, Virginia Lee Corbin, Kathlyn Williams and Ricardo Cortez have the principal roles.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Denman, of this city and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kuhn, of Pickerington, have returned from a motor trip to Logansport, Indiana, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. John M. Greist.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Tuberculosis Enemy of Young Womanhood

It would be disconcerting indeed to accept as medico-social gospel the statements of Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk before the national educational conference in New York, concerning the physical deterioration of the present-day girl. His main thesis is that she is giving way under the strain involved in self-confidently defying tradition and convention. He thinks the price she pays for what she considers her freedom is a shortening of her years, an inability to reap all that should be harvested from life, physically and spiritually, and a general repression of health.

If it be established as a universal fact, embracing the whole country, that the death rate among women is greater than among men only between the ages of seventeen and thirty-two, the reasons are to be sought elsewhere than in the woman's enjoyment of "this freedom." Tuberculosis, childbirth and influenza are assigned as the principal causes of mortality in these 15 years. But one of the boasts of medical science is the relative conquest of perils attending childbirth, and women would hardly seem more susceptible to influenza than men. Tuberculosis remains as young womanhood's most deadly enemy. It is "defiant and resistant" at the ages mentioned, though yielding in all other groups of the population. This is where faulty diet and late hours tell most heavily on young women engaged in commercial and industrial employments. The practical remedy seems to lie in a return to the normal home life of the mothers, and every influence of church and school, of teacher and doctor, should be directed to such a readjustment of social life as would assure her proper proportion of healthful repose to the young woman who spends her working hours in office or factory.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Optimistic Thought. The principal foundations of all states are good laws and good arms.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Playgoers of this section will be privileged to witness one of the most enthusiastically praised plays of the generation when "Seventh Heaven" is presented at the Hartman theater Columbus for one week beginning Monday, March 2. This is the newest dramatic success of John Golden who blended the fun and heart throbs of "Lightnin'," "Three Wise Fools," "The First Year," "Dear Me" and other plays that rank with the best loved offerings of the American stage because of their wholesomeness and gentle humanity.

"Seventh Heaven" is different from their earlier Golden plays in that its scenes are laid in Paris. The other have been typically American usually dealing with home life and quaint, everyday characters. But the same formula of clean fun and gentle pathos has been followed. The principal characters are Diane, a neglected waif of Paris slums and Chico, a swaggering street washer. Thru their suffering in the crucible of the great war the pair are lifted from squalor and ignorance to heights of great happiness in religious understanding and true love. Their elevation to the "Seventh Heaven" of bliss gives the play its title. The war serves merely as a background and is in no sense a "war play." Ann Forrest, blonde beauty of filmland plays Diane and Louis D'Arcy a young Belgian actor from Mme. Rejane's repertoire company and theater Odeon, Paris, is Chico.

Matinees are announced for Wednesday and Saturday during the Columbus engagement. Mail orders will be given careful attention.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE No. 11.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

PARALYSIS

Caused Death of Mrs. G. W. Bauder—Funeral Monday.

Mrs. Adelia M. Bauder, widow of George W. Bauder died at her home, 208 North Scioto street, at nine o'clock Thursday evening. She had been ill for the past four months. Her death was due to paralysis.

The deceased was born in Monroe township, Butler county, Ohio, June 23, 1852 and she was a daughter of James R., and Sarah Todhunter Clark. She was married to George W. Bauder October 22, 1873. He died in this city March 1, 1920.

Mrs. Bauder was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was also a member of the Home and Hospital board for a number of years. She was also greatly interested in the work of the Circleville Benevolent society and gave a great deal of her time to the Sewing club and in teaching young girls how to sew.

She was a woman of refined tastes and did a great deal of charity work and did it in a quiet way, unknown to the public.

She is survived by two daughters; Cora, wife of William Pitt Creede, and Georgia, wife of Harry C. Gordon of Parkersburg, West Virginia.

The funeral services will be held from the home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Edwin K. Johnson will officiate. Interment will be in Forest cemetery.

The pallbearers will be N. A. Warner, C. F. Abernethy, O. S. Howard, George E. Roth, A. L. Wilder and O. D. Mader.

ROYAL WELCOME.

Royal welcome to king of jazz. Wherever the saxophone moans and the banjo pings, Ted Lewis is hailed as the foremost exponent of his art. So yesterday, when he arrived in San Francisco to open an engagement at the Orpheum he was greeted by Harry Campbell, manager of theater and a reception committee considerably augmented by loyal throngs of admirers and five jazz bands headed by Hub Meyerinck, Charles Tharpe, Ray Teller, Tom Gruewitch and Rey Code. The music was too much for Ted, so he went into his dance right in front of the Ferry building. Then they all escorted him to the City hall where Ed Ramey, representing Mayor Rolph, presented him with the golden key to the city.—Vanderbilt Daily-Herald.

C. A. C. WINNER IN SLOW GAME WITH HILLIARD

Contest at Gym Was Uninteresting and Score Was 31 to 13.

In a slow disinteresting game the C. A. C. Quintet defeated the Hilliard Independants at the gym Thursday night.

At no time during the game did the club boys have to play their best, not having the opposition usually encountered in their practice games. Just what was wrong with the visiting team we cannot say. They came with a good reputation and in previous years always made the club team play hard to win, but Thursday night they were off color and the club team did not have to play the conservative game heretofore required of them to win and every man on the team did his bit toward piling up the score.

Next week we meet The Hoover Sweepers. This is a new team to local fans and the club management but are highly recommended and it is hoped that fans will witness another of those well known, fast, interesting games that the club has been staging during this season. The score:—
